

One Nation Senate Candidates Advise.

This open letter from One Nation Senate Candidates attempts to draw attention to some of the failings of most of the current and past Senate Members. These Members of the Senate appear to have little knowledge (or will) of the legal and compelling role and duty of the Senate. Which is Constitutionally to supervise the House of Representatives by investigative inquiry into Bills (Legislation) that is passed in that lower House, as well as to warn their constituents of unsuitable acts of that lower House, as well as other aspects of checking and reining in that House when it acts in disregard to the rights and liberties of the Australian States and the people resident therein. The Senate is a House of review.

Recent assaults on the bush (country people including farmers), from both Federal and State Parliaments are unprecedented in recent decades, and include the massive increases in taxes and charges, the vicious assault on property rights including water rights, open door policies on imported produce without regard to quarantine safeguards of up to 100 years standing, farm costs for all used and needed commodities are through the roof, these include fertilizers, seeds, electricity, fuels and machinery inputs. Whilst returns from our farm produce is at record lows due to imports of subsidized produce, how can farmers continue to produce world best quality food when they are being forced out of business by governmental policy? What will happen when we can no longer feed or cloth ourselves, both in cost blow-out and quality of food and fibre?

Farmers and all people alike have to bear unprecedented regulations, forms, reports, applications and other impediments to lawful productive activities on their own land, and then if a mistake is made, because farmers are not lawyers, they are fined unbelievable amounts for doing no wrong, amounts that cannot be found or paid, this is a form of modern slavery in disguise (very thin). If these regulations etc, existed in the years of the 1700s and 1800s, Australia likely would not have been colonised, the settlers would have got back onto their ships and gone back to Great Britain in disgust.

Our country has been converted from a vibrant productive centre into a hole in the ground for the multi-national mining companies with Parliaments of all persuasions jumping onto the short term band wagon and cutting adrift our own productive farmers and manufacturing industries. We are told so called "jobs" are being created in their thousands, these are mostly low paid, part-time and in unprecedented numbers are training, and other schemes of work for the dole and TAFE courses, any employment of one hour per week is considered a "job" and added to the Prime Ministers boast of job creation fairy tale.

Increasingly our people are saddled with poisons and health threats, these include unleaded petrol, vaccination contents, food additives in the guise of preservatives, chemicals for pests and weed control, genetically modified crops etc. All these poisons easily pass financially starved customs services. Our border protection is a joke, yes, an occasional boat is found, it is what is not found or reported that worries us, how many boats and aircraft slip through the sieve, how many aircraft come and go unchecked through places like Tipperary Station in N.T.?

Parliaments now over-ride our Constitution like as if it's a story book of no meaning, hundreds (if not thousands) of laws have been enacted that are unconstitutional, even the choosing of our only important umpire the Governor General (and State Governors) is unconstitutional, and he/she then appoints the High Judges and other high public officials who continue the will of the Prime Minister instead of the people who pay them, each and all of them appear to be obeying the orders of unknown overseas masters, and everything just deteriorates from here onwards.

Our House of Review, the current (and past) Senate, appears to do little, or absolutely nothing, about any of this. Would you prefer this to change? Then we suggest the only viable option is to change the Senate, e.g. the persons sitting in the Senate; this refers to the entire current Senate, with the very slim exception that you may have one of the very few Senators who are truly representative of the people of their state, please think very carefully on this matter, the Senate is crucial to democracy. Check the actions of your Senators (and ask how they voted on a law that affects you) to guide you in your voting decision at the coming election. You have tried the rest, what about now giving One Nation a try? Chose and vote for One Nation candidates who do not answer to overseas masters, and can think and act in Australia's best interests.

We, as One Nation Senate candidates, pledge to represent the people of our State in unswerving devotion. To start work for you, we must become elected, will you think carefully and vote for us in the coming election for the Senate, we need each and everyone of you to overcome the multi-national funded puppets of the old party's that have caused the mess that Australia now faces.

Yours Sincerely,

Andrew Webber Policy Co-ordinator One Nation Federal NSW Division
